PURPOSE & SCOPE:

This policy is intended to ensure that Project Heating Solutions Limited handle complaints fairly, efficiently, and as a firm who is authorised and regulated by Financial Conduct Authority, we must be compliant with their regulations, and we refer to their DISP

1.3 Complaints managing rules.

<https://www.handbook.fca.org.uk/handbook/DISP/1/3.html>

This policy applies to all staff receiving or managing complaints from customers made to us or about us, regarding our products, services, staff, and complaint handling.

Our customers may contact us in the best way that suits their needs, we will ensure that customers calling us can do this on our local rate phone number.

The company's objective is to ensure that its complaints procedures is properly implemented effectively, and that complainants feel confident that their complaints, worries, or concerns are listened to and acted upon promptly and equitably.

Our complaints management system aims to:

- Record the customer complaint on their individual file and on the complaints register.
- Allow us to respond to questions raised by people who file a complaint in a timely manner.
- Increase the confidence of the person making a complaint or providing feedback and comments, in our administrative procedures, and
- Provide information that we can improve the quality of our products and services, staff training, and complaint handling.
- Record any remedial actions taken and any redress that is paid to a customer or both may be appropriate, and the reasons for us coming to those decisions.
- This policy provides guidance to all our staff and to individuals who wish to file a complaint about our key principles and concept of our complaints management system.

Remedial Action:

A remedial action is intended to correct something that is wrong or to improve a bad situation: This may include the replacement of faulty products, incorrectly fitted products or a change of product that may be suitable to the customers home, and that we have supplied according to the original sales customer contract. Or if the complaint is about the finance product, in the way it was presented, the credit agreement or the lenders terms.

We endeavour to make our remedial actions a 'one off' event driven corrective measures. Each product remedial action will be different due to the nature of the sale contract provided due to a bespoke nature of the installation to their home. However, we document all our remedial action plans on the customer 'customer file' and our management system. This system provides the firm with management information to identify regular occurrences of complaints by product, installations, staff, finance complaints. We aim to provide a consistent approach to all complaints. All staff will follow the examples as set out in the compensation guidelines to assist in deciding the appropriate level of payment to make to customers so that customers are treated fairly, and any compensation payments are consistently applied to all our customers. This may involve one or more of the following:

- Apology: A financial award is not always appropriate. Often, a simple, heartfelt apology will be sufficient and may go a lot further than offering a monetary payment.
- Redress: A payment to restore the customer to the financial position they would be in if things had not gone wrong.
- Distress: The emotional impact caused to the customer by something going wrong.
- Inconvenience: The time it has taken the customer trying to right something that has gone wrong.

The Financial Ombudsman (FOS) defines distress as including upset, embarrassment, anxiety, disappointment, loss of expectation and stress. They expect a firm to consider how much their action has affected the complainant and respond accordingly.*

All our staff must be aware of their individual financial mandate as to whether they have the authority to make the appropriate level of payment necessary or should refer it to their line director for authorisation. Project Heating Solutions Limited needs to comply promptly with any offer of remedial action or redress accepted by the complainant.

WHAT IS A COMPLAINT?

A complaint is an expression of dissatisfaction about our products, services, our staff, our actions, or lack of actions taken regarding operations, facilities, advertising and marketing information and anybody or company acting on our behalf.

A formal complaint means a complaint that has not been successfully resolved through our complaint management systems outlined in this policy. The complainant has chosen to formalise the complaint by completing our complaint form, or by writing to us.

An informal complaint means a complaint that has been received by us, by phone, email, postal mail or in person, which has not been submitted on our complaint form.

COMPLAINT MANAGEMENT SYSTEM:

All complaints will be recorded on both the client file and the complaint management system. This is a software system we have designed in house to enable us to track the complaint and use the management information for future developments, improvements to our products and procedures as well as providing accurate information for external bodies, regulators, and our lender partners.

We will confirm the complaint details to the customer in writing (this email / text message or letter depending on the customer's choice) within three working days of receipt.

We will continue to keep the customer informed on the progress of the complaint weekly, in writing, in their preferred method of contact i.e., email or post.

If the complaint involves a third party, such as a manufacturing fault, we will hold the complaint as we see the customer as our customer and work with the manufacture to resolve the fault. We will inform the customer of the third party promptly; including the third-party contact details where applicable.

Verbal Complaints:

Project Heating Solutions Limited staff who receive a verbal complaint should try to resolve this immediately if possible.

Information is to be recorded on the customers file, including the completion of the complaints form and a letter or email sent to the customer clarifying the complaint and action to be taken including estimated time frames. This can also be communicated verbally but will always be followed up in writing. This is to be done within three days of the oral complaint being received.

The complaint is to be discussed with the company complaints manager, Russell Steelyard.

Russell Steelyard is the named person who deals with complaint through the process. When staff or management receive an oral complaint, both should listen sincerely to the issues raised by the complainant. Any contact with a complainant must be polite, courteous, and sympathetic. At all times, staff and management must remain calm and respectful.

After discussing the issues raised each staff member or management managing the complaint should suggest an action plan to resolve the complaint. If this action plan is acceptable, staff or management should clarify the agreement with the complainant and agree on a way in which the results of the complaint will be communicated to the complainant this may mean a meeting or in writing.

If the proposed action plan is not acceptable to the complainant, staff or management should ask the complainant to make their complaint in writing to Project Heating Solutions Limited and provide a copy of our complaint's procedure and a complaint form.

Written Complaints:

When a complaint is received in writing, it must be forwarded to the named complaints contact, Russell Steelyard director of Project Heating Solutions Limited, who must enter the details into the complaints log and then send a acknowledge receipt within three working days to establish a relationship of confidence with the person who has raised the complaint.

If necessary, further clarification should be obtained from the complainant. If the complaint is not made by our customer, but is made on their behalf, the customers consent, preferably in writing, must be obtained in advance from the customer.

After receiving the complaint, a copy of the complaint's procedure must be given to the customer. Clearly and politely explain the complaints process, the time it may take and realistic expectations. We may have to arrange a visit to the customer's home. This must be arranged within 14-days and confirmed in writing.

Immediately on receipt of the complaint Project Heating Solutions Limited will launch an investigation and within 28-days should be able to provide a written explanation to the complainant, either in writing or arranging a meeting to visit the individuals concerned. On some occasions this may not be possible. We will write to the customer and explain that we are still investigating, why there is a delay and propose a date that we hope to provide them with an explanation.

MANAGEMENT INFORMATION:

Complaints are an important management tool which allows us to learn about the products and services we provide. They are a useful source of information about how the customers see our services and how we are serving our customers.

To ensure that Project Heating Solutions Limited can learn from its complaints, the following data should be collected for every complaint received:

- The name, address and contact details of complainant.
- The name and role of the person internally dealing with the complaint.
- The dates on which the complaint was received and on which it was responded to.
- The nature of the complaint
- The outcome of the complaint
- How the complaint was received
- Remedial/Redress or both, action carried out in response to the complaint.
- Lessons learnt from the complaint.

It is important that complaints information is reported and considered on a regular basis and shared at all levels with Project Heating Solutions Limited.

The following methods will be used to report complaints information:

- A weekly report to the management
- A monthly overview report compiled by the management team.
- A 6-monthly report to show the data, causes and actions taken to avoid these complaints in the future.

We use some core principles that help us to provide effective management data, effective root cause analysis. Not only will these help the analysis quality, but these will also help the analyst gain trust and buy-in from staff and customers:

- Focus on correcting and remedying root causes rather than just symptoms.
- Do not ignore the importance of treating symptoms for short term relief.
- Realise there can be, and often are, multiple root cause.
- Focus on HOW and WHY something happened, not WHO was responsible.
- Be methodical and find concrete cause-effect evidence to back up root cause claims.
- Provide enough information to inform a corrective course of action.
- Analysing guidance produced by agencies such as the FCA, regulators and FOS, and communicating it to the individuals dealing with complaints.
- Consider how a root cause can be prevented (or replicated) in the future.

The above principles illustrate when we analyse deep issues and causes, it is important to take a comprehensive and holistic approach. In addition to discovering the root cause, we should strive to provide context and information that will result in an action or a decision. Good analysis is actionable analysis.

COMPLAINTS REPORTING:

Project Heating Solutions Limited understand as an authorised and regulated firm of the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) we will have to report to the FCA annually. We will need to report on all complaints received in relation to credit related regulated activities.

COMPLAINTS SETTLED WITHIN 3 BUSINESS DAYS:

Complaints that can be settled to the customer's satisfaction within three business days can be recorded and communicated differently.

Where we consider a complaint to be resolved to the customer's satisfaction under this section, the firm will promptly send a 'Summary Resolution Communication,' being a written communication which:

- Refers to the fact that the customer has made a complaint and informs them that they now consider the complaint to have been resolved to the customers satisfaction.
- The firm will tell the customer that if they subsequently decide that they are dissatisfied with the resolution of the complaint they may be able to refer the complaint back to the firm for further consideration or alternatively refer the complaint to the FOS.
- Provide the website address of the FOS.
- Refer to the availability of further information on the website of FOS.

In addition to sending a Summary Resolution Communication, the firm may also use other methods to communicate the information where:

- We consider that doing so may better meet the customer's needs; or
- They have already been using another method to communicate about the complaint. This may include recorded calls, emails, or text messages.
- All communication will be recorded on to the customer's file.

CLOSING A COMPLAINT:

We will consider a complaint closed when we have made our final response to the customer.

This does not prevent a customer from exercising any rights they may have to refer the matter to FOS.

Our final response must include:

- If we accept the complaint and, where appropriate, offers redress or remedial action, including full details of the remedial work to be carried out to a customer's property, and how we will provide a remedial satisfaction note to provide evidence of the work required and your signed satisfaction on our firm's remedial satisfaction note
- Offers redress or remedial action without accepting the complaint.
- Reject the complaint and we will give our reasons for doing so.
- Provide our customers with a copy of FOS standard explanatory leaflet and the contact details including full postal address, phone number, email, and a link to their online complaint form.

If the customer remains dissatisfied, they will be informed that they may refer their complaint to FOS.

This will be a written response and will set out clearly our decision and the reasons for it. If any redress is offered a clear method of calculation will be shown. We must do this within 8-weeks of receipt of your complaint.

If in the event of not concluding your complaint we will explain why if we are not in a position to make a final response and indicate when we expect to be able to provide one to you and include the following:

2. indicates whether or not you the respondent consents to waive the relevant time limits in DISP 2.8.2 R or DISP 2.8.7 R for example was the complaint referred to the Financial Ombudsman Service in time, if it becomes apparent that the complaint has been made or is referred outside those time limits;
3. encloses a copy of the Financial Ombudsman Service standard explanatory leaflet; and
4. provides the website address of the Financial Ombudsman Service.

 - We will indicate to you whether we consent to waive the relevant time limits.

COMPLAINTS FORWARDING:

The FCA has specific rules about informing our customers if we believe that their complaint may be solely or jointly the responsibility of another firm, person, a body, or regulator. As a business we must ensure we document this on your customer file and provide you with written communication of this. This may be done via post, or email. There may be some circumstances, where a customer has communicated their preferred method of communication, that we communicate in the customers preferred method.

We will communicate this as soon as possible and explain the reasons for our decision in a clear and concise way, in a way the customer can best understand the reason for forwarding on their complaint.

A respondent (the firm) that has reasonable grounds to be satisfied that another respondent may be solely or jointly responsible for the matter alleged in a complaint may forward the complaint, or the relevant part of it, in writing to that other respondent, provided it: (1) does so promptly; (2)

1. does so promptly.
2. informs the complainant (customer) promptly in a final response of why the complaint has been forwarded by it to the other respondent, and of the other respondent's contact details; and
3. where jointly responsible for the fault alleged in the complaint, it complies with its own obligations under this chapter in respect of that part of the complaint it has not forwarded

As a firm we may receive a Complaint via Complaint forwarding. On receiving a forwarded complaint, the standard time limits will apply from the date on which the respondent receives the forwarded complaint.

FINANCIAL OMBUDSMAN SERVICES (FOS):

We will co-operate fully with FOS in resolving any complaints made against us and agree to be bound by any awards made. The firm undertakes to pay promptly any fees levied by FOS.

The customer will be informed that they have the right to refer their complaint to FOS, free of charge but you must do so within six months of the date of our final response letter.

If they do not refer their complaint in time, FOS will not have our permission to consider the complaint and so will only be able to do so in very limited circumstances. For example, if FOS believes that the delay was because of exceptional circumstances.

FOS might not be able to consider your complaint if:

- Outside the allocated time of more than six years ago, and
- The complaint was more than three years after they realised (or should have realised) that there was a problem.
- If we think that the complaint was made outside of these time limits, but this is a matter for FOS to decide.
- If FOS agrees with us, they will not have our permission to consider your complaint and so will only be able to do so in extremely limited circumstances.
